

THE GETTYSBURG TIMES.

Vol. X. No. 149

Gettysburg, Pa. Wednesday, April 10, 1912

Price Two Cents

Onyx Hosiery

COTTONS and SILKS
From 15 cts. to $1.50 a pair
FOR LADIES and MEN

Eckert's Store
"On The Square"

WIZARD THEATRE

Selig Biograph Melies
The Prosecuting Attorney Selig
A vivid, dramatic story of noble self.
Sacrifice
Featuring Miss Katherine Williams.
The Failure Biograph Drama
Roped In Western Drama

FRIDAY, APRIL 12—Guy Brothers Minstrels. Prices 35 and 50 cents.

BASE BALL

We are agents for the well known Reach Sporting Goods
A full line
Gloves, Mitts, Balls, Bats, Score Books etc.
Everything for a ball team at

HUBER'S DRUG STORE

NEW PHOTOPLAY

Biograph Lubin Pathe
The Eternal Mother Biograph Drama
The Blacksmith Lubin Drama
The Horse Thief Pathe Western Drama

SPRING SUIT

The variety is now at its height. Our service is now at its best.
There is nothing to be gained by waiting. There is everything to be gained by ordering your Spring Clothes to-day, at LIPPY'S

J. D. LIPPY, TAILOR.

QUALITY SHOP

Easter Neckwear
AS USUAL
Especially Fine

TAILOR HABERDASHER WILL M. SELIGMAN.

HATS CLEANED

Straw and Felt Hats cleaned and reblocked. We make your old hat look like new.

JOHN PETTIS
Shoe Shining Parlor.

SEED POTATOES

For Sale

Extra fine from the state of Maine.

G. H. KNOUSE, Biglerville, Pa.

THOSE TAKEN BY HAND OF DEATH

Prominent Citizen Dies at Hampton.
Deaths in Other Parts of the County and Notices of the Funerals. Those who Survive.

LEMUEL MYERS

Lemuel Myers, a prominent and esteemed citizen of this county, died at his home in Hampton, Monday, April 8, at 10 a. m., from a complication of diseases. His age was about 68 years. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Myers, of Reading township, and he was a veteran of the Civil war and a pensioner.

He is survived by a widow, who, before marriage, was Miss Rebecca Trostle, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Trostle, of Ferry county.
He is also survived by one brother,
P. Searight Myers, of Reading township; and two sisters, Mrs. J. W.
Wircman, of Huntington township, and Mrs. John Peters, of York Springs.

Funeral Thursday, April 11, at 10 a. m., Rev. E. E. Dietterich officiating. Interment in the Lutheran cemetery at Hampton.

MRS. JACOB WINAND

Mrs. Amanda Winand (nee Weaver) widow of the late Jacob Winand, died early Tuesday morning at the home of her son-in-law, Ira S. Herman at Rock Chapel, from paralysis of the heart, aged 71 years, 4 months and 11 days.

She is survived by one son, Irvin Winand, and one daughter, Mrs. Ira S.
Herman both of Huntington township;
also by five step children.

Funeral on Friday at 9 a. m. with interment at Latimore Meeting House.

MISS MARY J. WIEMAN

Miss Mary Jane Wieman, died at her home in Bendersville this morning at 6 o'clock, aged 75 years, 7 months and 14 days.

She leaves one sister, Mrs. Sidney Longnecker, of Bendersville.

Funeral services Friday, meeting at the house at 1 o'clock. Interment in Bendersville cemetery.

MISSIONARY DIES

Rev. E. E. Neidel, a Lutheran missionary, died of African fever, near Muhlenberg mission, Liberia, on March 1st.

COMING EVENTS

Apr. 12—Guy Brothers' Minstrels
Wizard Theatre.
Apr. 12—Parent-Teachers' Meeting.
High School building.
Apr. 13—Base Ball, Lebanon Valley, Nixon Field.
Apr. 13—Spring Primaries.
Apr. 15—Lecture, Dr. Wharton Stork Seminary Chapel.
Apr. 16—Lecture, S. M. Bushman.
Bruc Chapel.
Apr. 18—Concert, College Musical Clubs, Bruc Chapel.
Apr. 20—Base Ball, Albright, Nixon Field.
Apr. 22—Lecture, Rev. S. Winfield Herman, Seminary Chapel.
Apr. 23—Base Ball, Mt. St. Mary's, Nixon Field.
Apr. 26—Arbor Day.
Apr. 29—Lecture, Dr. Huckel, Seminary Chapel.
May 1—Gettysburg's first municipal house cleaning day.
May 2—Opening of curb market for season of 1912.

NATIONAL GUARD OFFICERS HERE

Major L. V. Rausch, keeper of the state arsenal at Harrisburg, and Sergeant George G. Rode, were visitors in Gettysburg today. They made a further trip over the proposed site for this summer's division encampment of the National Guard of Pennsylvania west of town and all things point to an early designation of Gettysburg as the place for the big event. The National Guard officers are very favorably impressed with the grounds offered and, with the exception of the old parade ground, the new site is almost as desirable as the one formerly used and now not available.

LITTLE ABOUT EXECUTION

The Chambersburg Civic Club passed a resolution Monday afternoon requesting the newspapers of that town to print as few facts as possible relating to the execution of Reed and that parents use their influence to keep the children off the streets at the time when it occurs.

House for rent, 410 York street.
Good garden and stable. H. A. Shultz, route 12 Gettysburg. Possession given at once.

WANTED, at once, experienced tailoresses as helpers on coats or to learn. Address Box 221.

FOR SALE: one Jersey cow, one Guernsey cow, one Jersey heifer. Apply Lemuel Burtner, Flora Dale.

FOR SALE: lot of timber, Joseph
B. Twining, route 12, Gettysburg.

WANT TO RAISE $25,000 IN TOWN

Will Endeavor to Raise Substantial Sum in Gettysburg for Endowment Fund of the College. Point out Advantage to Town.

To secure a substantial list of subscriptions in town to the proposed $200,000 endowment fund of Gettysburg College a campaign has been started to secure a sum reaching $25, 000 from local citizens. The following citizens have in charge the work:

Dr. Wm. A. Granville, Dr. H. W.
McKnight, Dr. J. A. Singmaster,
Rev. J. B. Baker, Charles A. Blocher,
S. M. Bushman, Dorsey Dougherty,
C. S. Duncan, Amos Eckert, W. Lavere
Hafer, J. A. Holtzworth, Hon. Wm.
A. Martin, Dr. Walter H. O'Neal,
Rev. L. Dow Ott, Rev. Franklin E.
Taylor, Wm. H. Tipton, H. T. Weaver,
C. S. Reaser, Hon. S. McC. Swope,
Dr. T. C. Billheimer, Hon. R. Wm.
Bream, Dr. J. A. Clutz, E. A. Crouse,
Prof. C. H. Huber, Wm. Arch Mc-Clean, Hon. D. P. McPherson, H. C.
Picking, Rev. S. F. Snyder, Prof. C.
B. Stover.

An attractive pamphlet has been issued telling of the benefit of the college to the town and advancing arguments why the people of town should contribute liberally in the present campaign. Among other things the bulletin says:

"Without counting the increase in the value of the land owned by the College, the total investment of the College in land, buildings, equipment, and endowments, amounts to over $800,000. The investments of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg amount to about $500,000. Since the Seminary depends on the College for its students, it follows that the College is directly responsible for the investment in Gettysburg of over $1,300,000 in these two educational plants. This investment however differs radically from the ordinary investments made in Gettysburg by an outsider, in that in the latter case the returns from the investment are paid to outsiders, while on this $1,300,000 all but a very small part of which has been donated by outsiders, the citizens of Gettysburg are collecting the major portion of the dividends.

"The above total of $1,300,000 does not include the value of the houses in which the instructors and employees of the College live who are not housed in College buildings, nor does it include the value of the business buildings and homes in Gettysburg amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars more which are occupied by those who indirectly depend on the business brought to Gettysburg by these two institutions.

"At 5 per cent the returns to the citizens of Gettysburg from the investment of $1,300,000 is $65,000 per annum, and this estimate does not take into account the income from the indirect investments which would amount to tens of thousands dollars more.

"Over $100,000 is spent annually in Gettysburg by the students of the two institutions. Higher education, as represented by these two great institutions of learning is the greatest industry in Gettysburg. The annual financial returns from this source to the citizens of Gettysburg are absolutely certain and are, to a certain extent, independent of hard times.
There is not a business man, professional man, or working man in Gettysburg, who would not keenly feel the lack of the healthy financial blood which courses through the mercantile channels of Gettysburg because of the presence here of these two institutions;
and there are many scores of families, who, if the institutions should close,
would lose their present means of livelihood and be obliged to leave Gettysburg. All this becomes clear when we think of the merchants here whose main dependence is the patronage of the students and instructors and other employees of these institutions, those who have retired here because of them, and the large number of visitors who annually come to Gettysburg because of the location here of the College and the Seminary. There is not a man, woman or child in Gettysburg who should not be deeply concerned about the welfare of our College, for all are connected with it either directly or indirectly.

"That such a large number of Gettysburg men and women have attained to eminence is largely due to the fact that, because of the presence here of the College, they were able to secure a first class college education which otherwise would have been beyond their financial reach. That parents living in Gettysburg can give their children a high grade college education at a very low cost is an asset to the town of great value educationally, socially, and financially.
The generosity of past donors to the college now operates to reduce the cost of instruction by at least one half.

"The financial returns, large as they are, in fact, are from another stand-

SUMMER TOURIST BUSINESS OPENS

Automobile Parties Noticeable on the Avenues. Washington Party Coming Later in the Week and New Englanders Saturday.

Warm spring-like days have brought the first automobile tourists to Gettysburg this week and a number of parties traveling in this part of the state have taken a day off to visit the field. The presence of a number of strange cars on the battlefield avenues is very noticeable and the business has opened unusually soon.

The early spring tourists stay as a rule at least one day in Gettysburg and take their time for a tour of the field, those coming later on making a more hurried trip, and the visitors of the past few days have made thorough tours.

On Thursday a party of thirty five from Washington will come to Gettysburg to make a trip over the battlefield. No advice as to the make up of the party has been received but it is understood that some of the nation's lawmakers will be in the number.
They have engaged accommodations at the Eagle Hotel Saturday a large New England party is also booked for the same hotel.

Others visiting the field this week came in part of two or three by train and the ever-increasing interest in Gettysburg is manifesting itself as much as usual this spring.

BIG CONVENTION

Cumberland Valley is to be favored with one of the great conventions of the Laymen's Missionary Movement; to be held in Carlisle, May 2nd and 3d. The convention will open with a session at 2:30 p. m., Thursday, May 2nd. In the evening a great banquet will be held at which J. Campbell White and one or two others will address the banqueters. This great movement of Christian men, who have taken as their motto—"Evangelization of the World in this Generation" has stirred the Christian Church of the United States, Canada, Great Britain and Australia as no other movement has ever done. It is about five years old. Two years ago it swept over the United States, holding seventy eight great conventions at which nearly two hundred thousand men registered.

COLLEGE TO STAY

The trustees of Blue Ridge College have officially announced that it has been decided to keep the institution in Union Bridge, provided conditions become more tolerable in relation to Tidewater Portland Cement plant located near the college, and there shall be no falling off in the number of students.

A bill providing for an annual appropriation on the part of the state of Maryland to Blue Ridge College in the amount of $5,000 for thirteen state scholarships passed the house and senate at the recent session and, it is understood, will be signed by the governor. The bill goes into effect in 1913.

GET RID OF SPARROWS

State Zoologist Surface has issued a bulletin telling of the ravages of the English sparrow and giving instructions on how to put it out of existence. Destruction of the nests and feeding the birds with wheat poisoned with strychnine are two of the ways.
The birds are accused of spreading San Jose scale and other destructive habits. A short paragraph at the close of the article says: "Care should be taken to avoid killing the song sparrows and other beneficial birds in mistake for the English sparrow. This has been done recently in some parts of the country."

HELD EASTER SERVICES

The Reformed Sunday School of Biglerville rendered a very pretty Easter service on Sunday evening, entitled "Hope, Joy, Victory", all parts being well carried out. The music was very good, especially the parts taken by the children. An audience of about 350 people assembled and all were much gratified with the service. A collection of $5.85 was received. Service next Sunday evening at 7.30.

point less than the resulting advantages of education, culture, refinement, higher moral tone, and general enlightenment, accruing to the citizens of Gettysburg because of the location here of the College. This accounts very largely for the reputation. Gettysburg now enjoys as a model community of more than average refinement and culture and makes it highly desirable as a residential town. The various college lectures, as well as literary and musical entertainments, are open to the general public free or at a trifling cost."

Of the $200,000 endowment and $30,000 debt $110,000 has already been pledged. The balance must be raised before July 10, 1913, in order to make available the $50,000 Rockefeller gift.

PERSONAL NOTES AND BRIEF ITEMS

Paragraphs of News Telling of the Happenings in and about Town.
People Visiting here and those Sojourning Elsewhere.

Jacob Rudisill has returned to his home in this place after a visit with friends in Johnstown.

Mrs. Virginia M. Sefton has returned from York Springs where she was engaged in trained nursing.

Mrs. Sterling Valentine has returned to her home on Lincoln avenue
after spending several days in Oxford,
New Jersey.

Prof. and Mrs. Charles H. Huber have returned home after a visit with friends in Overbrook.

Miss Fannie Cobean, of Altoona, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
George C. Cobean at Chambersburg street.

W. H. Broom, Adm. Myers and J.
G. Stover participated in a shooting match at Parkville on Monday. Mr.
Broom stood third in the match.

Mrs. Ira F. Brame, of Carlisle, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Maria Meals, in this place.

Miss Ella Gilliland, of Chambersburg street, is spending some time in Washington.

Mrs. H. W. McKnight, of Carlisle street, is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Hay, in Harrisburg.

Miss East is spending some time with friends in Baltimore.

Mrs. Royston Brown has returned to Baltimore after a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Lippy on Chambersburg street.

Miss Ivy Tawney, of West Middle street, spent the day with friends in York.

Miss Anna Keefe, of McSherrystown, has returned home after a visit of several days at the home of Miss Anna Eckenrode on West High street.

Lloyd C. VanDoren has returned to Baltimore after spending several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdi-mand Warner on Baltimore street.

The Y. W. C. T. U. will meet with the Misses McClean, East Middle street, Thursday evening at 7.30.

Miss Martha Neely has returned to Moravian Seminary, Bethlehem, after spending the Easter vacation at her home on Lincoln avenue.

There will be no prayer meeting service in the Presbyterian church this evening.

William Hersch, Esq., returned home on Tuesday evening from a trip of several days to Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

TOOK MOUTHFUL OF AMMONIA

Rev. Dr. George E. Reed, former president of Dickinson College, and now minister of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, Wilmington, met with a serious accident Tuesday. He took a mouthful of particularly strong ammonia in mistake for a mouth wash.
The mishap occurred in a bath room which was dark. Although he did not swallow any of the liquid, his mouth, lips and upper part of his throat were severely burned. The injury is exceedingly painful, but Dr. Reed managed to conduct services in his church.

BRODBECK AND GITT QUIT

ACTIVE CAMPAIGN WORK
A. R. Brodbeck and H. N. Gitt, both of Hanover, candidates for the Democratic nomination for congress in this district have agreed to cease active campaigning. They each declare that they will leave their interests in the hands of the Democratic voters so that there will be no charges of unfairness or improper influence that will prevent a harmonious support of the nominee.

CONDITION UNCHANGED

The condition of John Shultz, who was seriously injured in town on Tuesday morning, remains unchanged. Mr.
Shultz sleeps a great deal of the time and suffers less pain than on Tuesday.

PROFITABLE DANCE

The dance by the Citizens' Band in Xavier Hall on Tuesday evening was well attended and yielded about $40.00 profit for the band.

BATTLEFIELD AUTO

John Toddes is having a sixteen passenger automobile built by the Crawford Automobile Company. He will use it for conveying tourists over the battlefield.

NOTICE: We sell cement, crushed stone and sand. Also want to buy a good horse quick. W. Oyler and Brother.

APPLE grafts: I have about 4000 apple grafts that I would like to plant on shares with some farmer near Arendtsville, Chas. E. Dome.

WANTED man to farm several town lots on shares.

LETTERS FROM COUNTY TOWNS

Correspondents send in Many Items of Interesting News from their Respective Towns. Personals and Many Brief Items.

BARLOW

Barlow, April 10—The work of the farmers of this vicinity has been considerably hindered by the late Spring.

The moving season is about over for another year and all those who changed residences are becoming comfortably situated.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Black took advantage of the excursion to Baltimore on Saturday.

Communion services at Mt. Joy on Sunday were largely attended. Many of the young people of this locality attended the Easter exercises at St.
Paul's, Harney, on Sunday evening.

O. B. Sharetts and family spent Sunday afternoon with John Schwartz and family.

Morris Sharetts spent the Easter season with his parents in this place.

Howard Arentz, who has been visiting in York for some time, has returned home.

The supervisors are busy making the roads in this section.

Miss Jennie Walters, of Mechanics-burg, is visiting Samuel Schwartz and family.

Services at Mt. Joy next Sunday at 2:00 p. m.; Sunday School at 1:00;
Christian Endeavor at 7:30 p. m.

M'SHERRYSTOWN

Miss Gertrude R. Lilly left Tuesday morning for an extended visit to friends in Frederick, Baltimore and Washington.

John Willet and wife, of Canton, Ohio, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Willet, of Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kunk, of Warren, Pa., are spending the Easter holidays at their parents' homes in this place.

Miss Elizabeth McElheney, a teacher in the public schools of Garwood,
N. J., is visiting her father, Philip T.
McElheney, of Main street.

Walter Stansbury, of Westminster, is visiting friends in this place.

Miss Estelle Keefe, of Church street, attended the graduation exercises of the nurses of St. Agnes hospital, Philadelphia, Monday. Miss Edna Keefe, her sister, is one of the graduates.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bair left Monday for Shippensburg, where they will make their future home.

Miss Cora Overbaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Overbaugh, of Church street, was received as a novitiate into the order of the Sisters of St. Joseph, at the Chestnut Hill Convent, near Philadelphia, Tuesday morning. Mrs. Overbaugh and her two daughters, Misses Genevieve and Mamie attended the ceremonies.

MINSTRELS COMING

Mr. George R. Guy who is known to the American public as the Ring of minstrelsy will present Guy Brothers Greater Minstrels at the Wizard Theatre next Friday.

This season Mr. Guy is carrying thirty five people and the best company ever had by him and by the press reports it certainly must be correct as the show is playing to capacity business everywhere. It is the 38th year for Guy Brothers minstrels on the road that record is hard to beat. Everyone in the company is the very best money could secure and no time or pains were spared to make the show up to its former standard. The celebrated silver band is carried and will parade on the town streets and also give an open air concert in front of the Wizard Theatre at 7.30.

YOU hear a great deal about the high cost of living. It is high and will remain high so long as women buy household supplies from middlemen, thus bearing their losses and expenses and paying their profits. Buy direct from the maker and save half of what you now spend. On request W. and H. Walker, Pittsburgh, will send you free their 224 page catalogue
No. 42 F, illustrating and describing over 500 daily household necessities they make and sell direct to the consumer, and over 3,000 articles of clothing and furniture given free with orders. They give $2.00 in value for $1.00. Write today for the book.

HARNESS machine for sale cheap $250. Landis machine for $100 in good order. Adams County Hardware Co.

Dr. J. E. Musselman has moved his dental parlors from the Diehl building on Baltimore street to the Eckert building on Centre Square.

LOST: G. H. S. '12 class pin. Initials
A. M. S. Reward if returned to 153 Main street.

The Gettysburg Times

PUBLISHED DAILY EXCEPT SUNDAY Times and News Publishing Company.
W. Lavere Biefer, Secretary and Treasurer.
Philip R. Biele, Editor.
Philip R. Biele, President.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES
Served by carrier in Gettysburg for 25 cents per month.
Mailed outside of Gettysburg for 25 cents per month.
Single copies to non-subscribers, 2 cents.
If you receive The Times by mail you can find the date up to which you are on the pink address label on your paper. The date will be changed with days after your money is received at The Times office.

Entered August 15, 1904, at Gettysburg, Pa., as second-class matter, under Congress March 3, 1879.

BELL PHONE UNITED PHONE
Office in Northwest corner of Centre Square, Gettysburg, Pa.

THIS PAPER REPRESENTS FOREIGN ADVERTISING BY THE

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

GENERAL OFFICES
NEW YORK AND CHICAGO
BRANCHES IN ALL THE PRINCIPAL CITIES

Want ads. 1 cent per word for first insertion and one-half cent per word or each additional insertion. Resolutions of respect, poetry and memorials one cent per word.

TO OUR READERS

The Gettysburg Times takes absolutely no part in politics, being neutral on all such matters. Anything that appears in general news columns, concerning state or national politics, is furnished us by the American Press Association, a concern which gives the same news to Republican, Democratic, Prohibition, or Socialist papers and which is strictly non-partisan.
Our advertising columns are open to all candidates of all parties.

WAVERLY BRANDS

6

SPECIAL MOTOR

WAVERLY GASOLINE
are the products of more than 30 years' experience. Three brands—
76°—Special—Motor
Power Without Carbon
Waverly gasolines are all refined, distilled and treated—contain no "natural" gasolines, which are crude and unrefined and which carry the maximum of carbon-producing elements.
Waverly Oil Works Co., Pittsburg, Pa.
Independent Refiners
Makers of Waverly Special Auto Oil

TREES

I have to offer first-class nursery stock in large or small quantities, leading varieties:

Fruit, Shade and Ornamental trees, Grape, Berries, Asparagus, Shrubbery, Privet Hedging, Locust and Catalpa Speciosa seedlings for timber.

Also Spray Solutions, large and small Spray Pumps, fittings and hose. Call write or phone.

BATTLEFIELD NURSERIES,

C. A. Stoner, Proprietor, Gettysburg, Pa.
Office and Packing grounds 42 West High Street.

The Wolf Stock Farm

HOME OF "JAY PATCHEN" Registered No. 43005 "LAURENCE" Heavy Weight Draught

LAURENCE—perchon stallion—one of the largest and finest of his class. He has been shown only four times and has four blue ribbons to his credit. He is a handsome steel dapple roan, just 6 years old and weighs over 1,200 lbs., for style and beauty he cannot be surpassed. The size and make-up of this horse should appeal to all interested in general purpose horses. TERMS—$100 cash and $500 to insure a mare with foal or $500 to insure a live colt.

JAY PATCHEN—Son of Jaybird 5000 sire of Ed Winter 2124 sire of Allen Winter 2064 winner of the $50,000.00 Trotting Derby at Readville, Mass., on Aug. 25, 1908, he was the champion trotter of 1908. In breeding JAY PATCHEN presents an array of blood lines, producing as it has some of the best performers in the pages of turf history. In the male line his family has produced such grand horses as LOCANDA 202; ALLERSON 2054; HAWTHORNE 2054; CHARLEY HAYT 2064; BELLEGA 22074; GENERAL FORBES 208; GAYTON 2084; ALBERTON 2094; MAXINE 2-874 and soon and on, including over 300 better than 230. JAY PATCHEN is also a first cousin of Dan Patch 1504 holding World's racing Records. On Oct. 11, 1905, at Lexington, Ky., Dan Patch paced the greatest mile of his life and only an accident prevented his having a record of 1:54. He paced the first quarter in 29 seconds, the second quarter in 27½ seconds, being a 1:54 clip, was at the half in 57½ seconds, a 1:30 clip, the third quarter in 29 seconds and was at the three-quarters in 1:25½, and was finishing strong at the seven-eighths mile when the power broke a blood vessel in his nostril and slackened up at once crowding him in towards the fence and forced him to slacken his tremendous stride of 22 feet, and yet Dan Patch finished the mile in 1:56½, which the horse papers and all horsemen admit was the fastest and greatest performance of the world famous harness King. JAY PATCHEN a 2:10 trotter. A call to the farm to see his get will convince any one that he is a Style Beauty and Speed producer and a sure foal getter. Terms—$200 cash and $13.00 when colt stands on its feet or $500 until close of the season June 15th.

WARREN B. A great sire for his age. A 4-year old. They cannot be any better. His disposition cannot be equalled. Will make the coming season at The Wolf Stock Farm at the low price of $5.00 to insure a colt on its feet. We cannot recommend him too highly. A cordial invitation is extended to all to visit the farm and inspect our stock, whether interested or not. Visitors always welcome. A complete pedigree of jay patchen size 12x18 will be sent free to anyone requesting it.

FOR SALE—8 Head of fine drivers and workers, one a good leader. Will sell at a reasonable figure. It will pay you to inspect this bunch of horses. One with a minute gait.

THE WOLF STOCK FARM, TANEYTOWN, MD.

Public Sale

25 Head of Horses

will be sold at Wm. B. Spalding's stables in Gettysburg by Howard Spalding.

Monday, April 15, 1912

These horses range from 2 to 10 years old. Consisting of mares with foal, some good single line leaders and some driving horses; also a few fresh cows, some stock bulls and a few shoats. Will buy horses and mules day of sale.

Sale to begin at 12 o'clock when conditions will be made known by Howard Spalding.

I have just received 2 carloads of buggies and 75 sets of harness; latest styles and the very best makes. Will sell at private sale. Come and look them over.

C. C. BREAM.

$1.00 EXCURSION

St. Francis Xavier's Catholic Beneficial Society of Gettysburg Pa., will run an excursion

To Baltimore on Thursday, April 25th.

Train leaves Gettysburg 7.15 a. m., New Oxford 7.37, Hanover 7.53, stopping at all stations including Hampstead. Returning leaves Hillen Station, Baltimore at 8 p. m.

Committee.

Home-Made Concentrated Lime Sulphur

Guaranteed strength equal to any on the market. No adulteration. Hydrometer and Aum test guaranteed. For sale by,

J. G. Stover, and D. C. Taylor, may be had at Bendersville, or T. W. Finnefrock, Aspers, H. J. Glass, Idaville, at 11 cents a gallon.

CHANG YIN TANG.

Minister of the Chinese Republic to the United States.

Photo by American Press Association

TREASURER HELD UP AND $3700 STOLEN

Glassboro Building and Loan Association Officer Robbed.

Glassboro, N. J., April 10.—Thomas C. Allen, treasurer of the Glassboro Building and Loan association, was sandbagged and robbed on the outskirts of the city.

Six hundred dollars in cash and $3100 in checks were taken. He had been at a meeting of the association and there was a big sale of stock, as it was the quarterly meeting.

Mr. Allen says that his assailant was short and heavy and was rather roughly dressed. All of the stolen checks were payable to the building and loan association and an effort has been made to reach all who gave them to have payment stopped.

The hold-up occurred on the Glassboro and Camden turnpike, when Mr. Allen was nearing his own home. There was no safe at the meeting place and it was customary for Allen to carry the receipts home with him. It is supposed that some one familiar with the amount of money he was carrying was the highwayman.

BED-RIDDEN GIRL GROWS

Doctors Say It Is Because of Her Long Rest Since She Was Injured.

Philadelphia, April 10.—Muriel Morrison, nine years old, of Darby, Pa., grown three inches since Christmas, at which time she was seriously burned. She has been unable to walk since, but it was recently discovered that she was growing too long for her bed. Then she was measured and it developed that her height had increased three inches.

Her physicians ascribe her abnormal growth to the fact that she has been resting so long a time. The day after Christmas the child's dress took fire from a wax candle on a Christmas tree and her back was so badly burned that she has been unable to walk since. She is now improving. The physicians say that after she is able to return to school she will not grow for some time, so matters will be equalized.

MAYOR FINED $500 RESIGNS

Pleads Not Vult to Charge of Taking Bribe From Company.

Freehold, N. J., April 10.—Edwin W. Packer, mayor of Long Branch, was fined $500 after his counsel had entered a plea of non-vult to an indictment charging the mayor with having accepted a sum of money from the representative of an asphalt company with a view to having the mayor use his influence in the awarding of contracts.

The mayor also placed his resignation in the hands of the court.

Indian Chief Dies After Operation.

Philadelphia, April 10.—John Trosch, an Indian from North Dakota known as Big Chief, died at the German hospital after an operation for appendicitis. He was the largest man ever admitted to the hospital, being nearly seven feet tall, and a special bed had to be provided. He was stricken several days ago while visiting a daughter at the Carlisle Indian school.

Child Drowns in Cesspool.

Allentown, Pa., April 10.—While her mother was calling on a neighbor, two-year-old Evelyn Lowery, daughter of Hugh Lowery, fell into a cesspool and was drowned.

WEATHER EVERYWHERE.

Observations of United States weather bureau taken at 8 p. m. yesterday follow:

	Temp.	Weather
Albany.....	34	Rain.
Atlantic City.....	46	Clear.
Boston.....	38	P. Cloudy
Buffalo.....	38	P. Cloudy
Chicago.....	64	Cloudy.
New Orleans.....	66	Rain.
New York.....	58	Clear.
Philadelphia.....	60	Clear.
St. Louis.....	64	Cloudy.
Washington.....	64	Clear.

Weather Forecast.

Fair today and tomorrow; west winds.

GOLDEN laced Wyandotte eggs for hatching from prize winners. Hoke Slaybaugh, Biglerville, Pa.

NOTICE eighteen good laying hens and one full blood white Orpington cockerel for sale by Mrs. M. E. Gove, Bendersville.

BUGGIES and runabouts: we have a few that we will close out at cost. Adams County Hardware Co.

BEACHES ARE NOW IN EUROPE

Hurries to Paris When He Hears of Warrant.

EXTRADITION BEING SOUGHT

New York Millionaire, Accused of Slashing His Wife, Traveling With Her Abroad.

London, April 10.—Frederick O. Beach, of New York, for whom the Aiken, S. C., police are searching with a warrant, charging an attempt to kill his wife, left the Mauretania at Fishguard, according to the Cunard company. He was accompanied by Mrs. Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Beach were located in a London hotel, but declined to see anyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Beach started hurriedly for Paris after several hours of perturbation. The excitement was due to the information received on their arrival in London that a warrant for the arrest of Mr. Beach on the charge of assaulting his wife had been issued by the authorities at Aiken, S. C. The Paris visit is ostensibly for the purpose of consulting William K. Vanderbilt, who was the best man at their wedding, and is a close friend of both Mr. and Mrs. Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Beach landed at Fishguard from the Mauretania on Sunday and came to London by the boat train. They went to Claridge's, where their presence was unknown to outsiders until Monday. It was not until late Monday afternoon that the couple learned that a warrant had been issued for the apprehension of Mr. Beach. The news agitated them very greatly. They had intended to remain in London until Friday and then go to Paris, but the news upset their plans.

Mr. Beach's first intention on learning that the Aiken authorities had issued a warrant for him was to return to the United States immediately. He made inquiries as to the earliest and quickest steamer he could catch, and on being informed he could make the new Titanic on her maiden trip across started to reserve accommodations for himself and wife. This plan, however, was soon abandoned, and instead Mr. Beach jumped into a taxicab and went to the American embassy, where he spent an hour with Mr. Reid, the ambassador.

Mr. Beach then returned to Claridge's and called up Paris on the phone. He had a long conversation with Mr. Vanderbilt, which resulted in his determination to start for Paris at once.

SIX UNDER ARREST

Authorities Say Details of Beach Scandal Will Soon Be Known.

Aiken, S. C., April 10.—With six persons under arrest as witnesses and a messenger on the way to Columbia to secure extradition papers from Governor Bleasde, the authorities here declared they would soon be in a position to reveal the details of the sensational attack upon Mrs. Frederick O. Beach, the rich New York society woman, who was struck down and slashed on the night of Feb. 26.

At the same time friends of Mr. Beach, who is charged in a warrant with being the perpetrator of the attack, rallied to the defense of the accused man, saying that his name would be cleared in due time.

The six persons taken into custody as witnesses were Pearl Hampton, a colored maid, who was attacked on the same night as Mrs. Beach, and who subsequently refused to give any information to the police; two maids in the employ of the household of Joseph Harriman; the valet of Clarence W. Dolan, a rich Philadelphia club man, and two maids employed at the Lyons residence, which adjoins the Beach home. They were released on bail.

Never has an incident aroused so much comment in the Aiken "Millionaire Row" as the assault upon Mrs. Beach, who was the widow of the late Charles Havemeyer. The gossipers—whose continued insinuations that Mr. Beach knew more of the attack than on any else led C. Oliver Iselin to express a fervid desire to lynch them—believe themselves vindicated by the admission of the authorities that a gold-plated, diamond-studded pocket knife, which was given to Beach by Mayor Giles, of Aiken, was found by detectives near the scene of the assault, its blade stained with blood.

Swindlers Sentenced to Prison.

York, Pa., April 10.—Five years in the penitentiary is the sentence imposed upon C. A. Ritter, until recently manager of a furniture store here and who pleaded guilty to a $25,000 swindle in Minnesota. His partner, George H. Conway, who also took part in the swindle, received a sentence of one year.

Find Body Floating in River.

Cumberland, Md., April 10.—The body of Pinkney Prickett, twenty-two years old, was found floating in the Monocahela river, near Boechnow's W. Va. He was drowned on the morning of Feb. 27 near his home while going to work. He fell into the river from a skiff. No one was with him at the time.

PUBLIC SALE

ON SATURDAY, APRIL 13th, 1912 at 1 o'clock p. m.

The undersigned will sell at public outcry the household goods of Henry and Magdalene Little at their late home near Springs Avenue in Gettysburg, consisting of chairs, beds and bedding, good carpet, loom, stove and other articles.

The Directors of the Poor.

FOR RENT: house on York street. Apply 267 Baltimore street.

MANY DROWN IN COLLISION

Ferry With 300 Aboard Sunk In Nile Near Cairo.

Cairo, Egypt, April 10.—A crowded street car ferry with hundreds of persons aboard sank in the Nile.

Two hundred persons are reported drowned.

The steamer had 300 passengers on board, who had taken advantage of the Easter holiday to make a trip to the river dam. On the return journey up stream, and not far from the dam, the excursion boat ran into another steamer and sank almost instantly.

All on board were thrown into the river, but many lives were saved by the vessel with which the excursion boat had been in collision.

Another passenger steamer and boats from the shore hastened to the rescue and picked up many of those struggling in the water.

The bodies of seventeen victims of the collision have been recovered. The government authorities have organized a systematic dragging of the river bed.

The steamer was a local excursion boat, and it is considered improbable that any American tourists were on board.

SPIKE ON THE RAIL WRECKS EXPRESS

Black Diamond's Passengers Shaken Up.

Easton, Pa., April 10.—A long spike on the track wrecked the Black Diamond, the Lehigh Valley railroad's fast express, two miles east of Phillipsburg, N. J., across the Delaware river from here.

None of the passengers or crew was seriously hurt, but all got a severe shaking up.

The spike threw the locomotive, buffet and baggage cars off the track and the locomotive went over on its side, badly damaged.

The spike is believed to have been dropped by one of a party of workmen who were engaged in construction work at the scene of the accident, but the presence of the obstruction gave rise to a report that a deliberate attempt had been made to wreck the express.

The train had slowed down because of the repair work. The engineer saw the spike, but was unable to stop before reaching it. When the locomotive hit the piece of iron it was thrown from the rails and, dragging along the buffet and baggage cars, ploughed up the roadbed for 100 yards and then went over on its side.

The passengers in the five coaches were given a severe jolt, but none of them was seriously hurt so far as reported. The passengers were transferred to another train and started westward, after a delay of forty minutes.

GIRL BORN IN PENITENTIARY

Mother, Who Is Very Young, In Serving a Five-Year Sentence.

Philadelphia, April 10.—A girl was born Monday within the massive walls of the eastern penitentiary.

The mother, who is a girl in years, was sentenced to five years in prison only a few months ago. She will be allowed to keep the baby for several months and then the child will probably be sent to a home to await her release.

This birth is the second to take place within the penitentiary within two months. The mother's name is being kept secret.

Forever Bars Perjuror as Witness.

Allentown, Pa., April 10.—Robert J. Keck, a former express messenger, was found guilty in criminal court of malpractice. Following the conviction he pleaded guilty to a charge of perjury which arose in a previous trial on the charge of malpractice. Keck was sentenced to three and entered years in jail, and the judge entered a decree that he be branded a liar forever and henceforth be disqualified as a witness in any court.

Taft to Attend Yale Dinner.

Washington, April 10.—President Taft will leave Washington tomorrow for New York, where he will attend the Yale club dinner. He will hold a reception at the Union League club and return to Washington on Friday morning.

GENERAL MARKETS

PHILADELPHIA — FLOUR steady; wheat, clear, $3.85@4.10; city mills, fancy, $5.50@5.75.

RYE FLOUR quiet, at $4.90@5.10.

WHEAT quiet; No. 2 red, $1@1.01½.

CORN firm; No. 2 yellow, 83½@84.

GATS firm; No. 2 white, 61½@62c; lower grades, 60c.

POULTRY: Live firm; hens, 16@17c; old roosters, 11c; turkeys, 16@17c.

Dressed steady; choice fowls, 17c; old roosters, 12c; turkeys, 22c.

BUTTER quiet; creamery, fancy, 36c per lb.

EGGS steady; selected, 23 @ 24c; nearby, 22c; western, 22c.

POTATOES steady, at $1.45@1.50 per bushel.

Live Stock Markets.

PITTSBURG (Union Stock Yards) — CATTLE steady; choice, $7.20@8.10; prime, $7.40@7.70.

SHEEP steady; prime wethers, $5.30@5.50; culls and common, $2@3; veal calves, $8@8.75; lambs, $4@7.25.

HOGS slow; prime heavies, $8.15@8.20; mediums, $8.20@8.25; heavy Yorkers, $8.20@8.25; light Yorkers, $7.70@7.90; pigs, $6.75@7.25; roughs, $6.75@7.25.

M. THOMPSON DILL,

Biglerville Penna

All branches of the profession given careful attention. United Telephone.

AN experienced man clerk wanted, general store, local town. Give references, experience and salary. Address Lock Box 321, Times office.

ROAD SCHOOLS TO BE CONDUCTED IN OHIO.

Highway Officials to Go Through Course of Training.

Schools for the instruction of local highway officials will be held in every county in the state of Ohio within the next three months with engineers of the state highway department as instructors.

The sessions are to be held at meetings appointed by State Highway Commissioner J. R. Marker, who under the provisions of the recently enacted McGuffey law becomes the chief instructor.

Mr. Marker has been preparing for the instruction work, together with his various state department heads. Under the law the commissioner has the authority to direct the commissioners of each county to call together all road officials and township trustees of the county for the purpose of receiving instruction. Their expenses are to be paid by the counties, together with a per diem allowance for the state officials who attend.

GOOD WORK IN GEORGIA.

Troup County Officials Use Convict Labor on Roads.

Commissioners of roads and revenues of Troup county, Ga., report that since the $200,000 bond issue for good roads has been passed by the people a total of about 100 miles of good roads has been completed under their supervision and that fifty more miles of road have been contracted for.

This work is all done by county convicts and contractors together and has proved highly satisfactory so far. Most of the main roads of the county have been completely rehabilitated, and every section of Troup county is now easily accessible at all times of the year.

Deafness Cured

When Caused by Catarrh

If you have ringing noises in your ears catarrh of the middle ear is making their way from the nose to the ears through the tubes.

Many cases of deafness caused by catarrh have been cured by breathing HYOMEL. It reaches the inflamed membrane, heals the soreness and banishes catarrh, which is the cause of most deafness.

F. C. Vanaman, railroad conductor of Binghamton, N. Y., writes that he was cured of deafness after specialists had failed.

HYOMEL (pronounce it High-o-mel) is guaranteed to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, asthma, croup, and sore throat, or money back. Complete outfit with inhaler $1.00. Extra bottles 50 cents. Sold by The People's Drug Store the enterprising pharmacist and druggists everywhere.

QUICKLY DRIVES OUT ALL THE RHEUMATIC POISON

Acts On Kidneys, Liver, Stomach and Blood First Day-That's RHEUMA'S Way.

The second day you take RHEUMA, the doctor's remedy that is selling so rapidly the country over, you'll realize that when RHEUMA goes in, uric acid goes out.

It matters not whether you are tortured with pain, crippled with swollen joints or distressed with occasional twinges. RHEUMA is guaranteed by The People's Drug Store to send your rheumatic trouble or money back. This new discovery is just as effective in cases of lumbago, sciatica, arthritis, chronic neuralgia and kidney disease.

Rheumatism is a dangerous disease. It often affects the heart and causes death. If you have it in the slightest degree, get a bottle of RHEUMA and drive it from your system right now. A bottle only costs 50 cts. Mail orders filled by RHEUMA Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Sheriff's Sale

In Pursuance of a Writ of Fieri Facias, issuing out of the Court of Common Pleas of Adams County, and to me directed, will be exposed to Public Sale on SATURDAY, the 20th day of April 1912, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the Court House in the Borough of Gettysburg, Adams County, Pa., the following Real Estate, viz:

The defendants right, title and interest in a tract of land situated in Straban Township, Adams County, Penna., bounded and described as follows: adjoining lands of John Lesser, Chas. Decker and J. W. Taughinbaugh, improved with a two story frame dwelling house, frame shop and hog pen and good well of water, containing 1 acre of land (more or less).

Ten per cent. of the purchase money on all sales by the sheriff must be paid over immediately after the property is struck down, failure to comply therewith the property will again be put up and sold.

Seized and taken into execution as the property of Hall Thompson and to be sold by me.

G. R. THOMPSON, Sheriff.

Sheriff's Office, Gettysburg, Pa., March 25th, 1912.

THE WESTERN MARYLAND RAILWAY

Leave Gettysburg Daily except Sunday

8:42 A. M. for Baltimore, Hanover, York and Intermediate Points.

10:08 A. M. for Hagerstown, Waynesboro, Chambersburg, Hancock, Cumberland, Elkins and Points West.

1:00 P. M. for York & Intermediate Points.

3:42 P. M. for Baltimore, Hanover, York and Intermediate Points.

5:45 P. M. for B. and H. Division Points to Highfield, also Hagerstown, Waynesboro, Chambersburg, Shippenburg and Hancock.

SUNDAYS ONLY

5:40 P. M. Local Train for York.

5:50 P. M. for New Oxford, Hanover and Intermediate Points to Baltimore.

WANTED man to farm several town lots on shares

FOR RENT: a brick house on Baltimore street, with all conveniences. Apply

ROYAL

Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

Where the finest biscuit, cake, hot-breads, crusts or puddings are required Royal is indispensable.

Royal is equally valuable in the preparation of plain, substantial, every-day foods, for all occasions.

The only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

No Alum—No Lime Phosphates

SHORT SERMONS ON GOOD ROADS.

No farming section which has once had good roads would ever go back to bad roads.

High freight rates are not nearly as heavy a tax on the shippers of stock and other farm produce as bad roads are.

Only a very rich county could afford the tremendous financial drain of bad roads.

A good road is to a country district what a paved street is to the city property that adjoins it. It makes business for that neighborhood.

A farmer living on a good road is a free man. He is not dependent on weather conditions. He is able to sell his stock and grain and fruit at the best market prices. The railroads have to serve the man who can get his stuff to a shipping point any day in the year.

Money spent for good roads is as good an investment for improving the farm as is money put in stock sheds, grain cribs, fences, seeds or anything else that makes the farm pay.

Brains are as essential as money and muscle in roadmaking.

Tar on Roads Disinfects.

Medial authorities have announced that in addition to its dust laying qualities a tar preparation is highly beneficial to the community using it on its roads owing to its disinfecting properties. According to the health authorities of Battersea, England, infant mortality has largely decreased in that populous district since its streets were surfaced with tar macadam.

An Educational Campaign.

"Let the farmers know what a good road really means, and you will have no difficulty in getting them in plenty" is the comprehensive statement of a Missouri man. Good roads work everywhere simply a campaign of education.

Good Road Helpers.

Don't be jealous of the automobile owner, for if he doesn't happen to own land in your township he is paying taxes in some other place and thus contributes his share toward the making of better roads, and in many instances he is advancing money to aid road construction. If a road is made better for an automobile it is also made better for a buggy with a load of eggs in the back end.

Public Sale.

ON SATURDAY, APRIL 13, 1912

The undersigned will sell at his residence in Strahan township, Adams Co., Pa., on the road leading from the Carlisle to Chambersburg road, 3 miles north of Carlisle, the following personal property: Good surrey, falling top, buggy, 2 sleighs, light sled, South Bend plow, new spike harrow, cultivator, new corn sheller, new green bone grinder, shovel plow, mowing scythe, briar hook, mattock, pick, cross cut saw, maul and wedges, 3 in. post auger, 2 in. augers, 1 1/4 in. auger, 1 in. auger, post ax, broad ax, foot ax, stone hammer, single trees, open rings, good set of front gears, collars and bridles, good side saddle, heavy leather flynet, about 100 chickens, principally Leghorns, 10 bus. rye, lot of corn by the bushel. Household and Kitchen furniture consisting of new oak sideboard with bevel glass, new oak wardrobe, old style bureau, bookcase and writing desk combined, bookcase, 2 bedsteads, bed spring, baby coach, crib, 4 stoves with pipe, No. 7 cookstove, Radiant Glen coal stove, good as new, small egg stove and small tentplate stove, 2 burner coal oil stove, 1 burner oil stove, 8 day clock, washing machine and wringer, Davis swing churn, from 2 to 8 cows, 2 copper kettles, one extra large barrel kettle with patent stirrer, the other 20 gal. kettle, meat bench, Enterprise meat grinder, cleaver, hooks and scrapers, gammon sticks, steelyards and balance scales, rug and quilting frame, 1 doz. kitchen chairs, porch rockers, lamps, dishes, pots and pans, old rifle, breech loading gun, about 50 yds. home made carpet, lot of home made wool carpet, 4 sacs of bees, and many articles not mentioned. Sale to commence at 1 o'clock; terms will be made known on day of sale.

J. W. MEALS.

POTATOES

Seventy bushels for sale raised by D. M. Hoffman, between Brysonia and Wenksville.

BICYCLES: We have a few bicycles that we will close out at a bargain. Adams County Hardware Co.

Wanted

Wanted; County Agent for Health and Accident Company with million dollar capital offering best policy, annual and monthly plans. Choice contract to right man. Write Southern Surety Co., State Agent, 413 Lewis Block, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Galvanized Roofing

1 1/4 inch Corrugated Galvanized Iron in 8, 9 and 10 ft., lengths at $3.35 a square.

Thos. J. Winebrenner

BALTO. ST.

ROOSEVELT WINS IN ILLINOIS

Defeats President Taft by Vote of 3 to 1.

PLURALITY MAY BE 100,000

Democrats by Overwhelming Majority Favor Champ Clark Over Woodrow Wilson.

Chicago, April 10.—Illinois Republicans have declared for Theodore Roosevelt for the presidential nomination in the preferential primary over President Taft by about 3 to 1. La Follette's vote was about one-sixth of that Roosevelt got.

Likewise the Democrats of the state have expressed their preference by an overwhelming majority in favor of Champ Clark as the nominee of their party, the latter having carried the state over Woodrow Wilson by a vote of more than 3 to 1.

Roosevelt's plurality in Chicago, according to latest returns, will be about 25,000, and the state and local managers of his campaign claim for him a plurality of 100,000 in the state. He carried the home district of Congressman William B. McKinley, the national Taft manager, by 2500, and was also victorious in the home district of Frank Smith, Taft manager for Illinois.

The Roosevelt forces carried Chicago by a vote of 1 1/2 to 1, swept Stephenson county by 4 to 1 and many other communities by the same ratio, leading to the claim by Roosevelt leaders that their candidate will show a strength of 3 to 1 when the final returns are tabulated.

Charles S. Denen, Republican, and Edward F. Dunne, Democrat, have carried Cook county by large pluralities and probably will be the nominees of their parties for the governorship.

In Chicago the governor fairly has run away from his opponents, his vote compared with his nearest contender being 2 to 1.

Len Small, the Lorimer candidate, is in second place in the incomplete returns, but he is far behind the leader. The probabilities are that his total vote in the county will not exceed 30,000, where his managers have been figuring on 80,000.

Woman suffrage has been defeated in Chicago. The ballots cast was about 2 to 1 in favor of the anti.

It has been the most momentous primary in the history of the state, and for the first time a direct expression of preference for a presidential candidate on the Republican and Democratic tickets was possible to the voters.

A spirited campaign had been waged for months and in the opinion of many the issue was defined as Lorimer and anti-Lorimer.

The same trail of Lorimer and anti-Lorimer runs throughout the list of candidates for congress and the general assembly down to precinct committeemen, of whom 4200 were to be elected.

In the Republican party the vote by congressional districts controlled the complexion of the delegates to the national convention, except for the delegates-at-large, who will be selected by the state Republican convention.

The Democratic delegates will be selected by that party's state convention. The presidential preference vote is advisory and carries with it only a moral obligation, instructing the delegates to vote for the candidate preferred by the people.

GRACE JOINS CHURCH

Man Who Says Wife Shot Him Is Baptized in Bed.

Atlanta, Ga., April 10.—Eugene Grace, who says his wife, formerly Mrs. Daisy Ople, of Philadelphia, had drugged and then shot him, was received into the Methodist church at Newman, where Grace is being cared for at the home of his mother.

Although Grace is better and the doctors say he will live for months, he expressed a wish to join church. Rev. Dr. Cotter, who officiated at the marriage of Grace's mother, was called and baptized Grace as he lay in bed. Then the wounded man was formally received into the Methodist communion.

Mrs. Grace is preparing for her preliminary trial on the charge of shooting her husband, which is set for next Tuesday. She was overjoyed when told that there was no prospect of her husband's death.

Mob Lynches Negro Court Released.

Shreveport, La., April 10.—Released because positive proof was lacking when arraigned on a charge of having written letters to a young white woman, Thomas Miles, a negro, was lynched near the city limits. The body was found swinging from a tree, rid with bullets.

Canada Makes Pact With West Indies.

Ottawa, April 10.—George E. Foster, Canadian minister of trade and commerce, announced that a treaty arranging mutual trade benefits had been drawn by representatives of the Dominion government and the British West Indies.

Fire Destroys Ice Plant.

Philadelphia, April 10.—Fire caused by the explosion of an ammonia tank destroyed the main building of the Glen Willow Ice company at Mansyunk. Loss, $150,000.

STOCK FOR SALE: six shares of Citizens' Trust Company. Inquire at Times office.

GENERAL MENOCAL.

Cuban Who Has Been Nominated For President.

WANTS TO BE PRESIDENT

Menocal, Whom Gomez Defeated in 1908, Will Run Again.

Havana, April 10.—The Conservative national convention nominated General Juan Mario Menocal for the presidency and Jose Enrique Varona for the vice presidency.

General Menocal is at present secretary of justice, and Senor Varona is the chairman of the national committee.

The Liberal convention will meet on April 15, and all indications point to the nomination of Alfredo Zayas for the presidency. Senor Zayas is now vice president of the republic.

OPERATORS AND MINERS IN SESSION

Say 5 Per Cent. Increase Will be Rejected.

Philadelphia, April 10.—Representatives of the anthracite mine workers, headed by John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and the operators, headed by George F. Baer, met in the Reading Terminal today.

John Fallon, the oldest and in some respects, the most influential of the anthracite representatives, said: "The temper of the mine workers is such that they will reject any offer of a 5 per cent increase. The other suggestion that there shall be a flat 10 per cent increase, will also be rejected by a virtually unanimous vote. The sliding scale, calculated upon an annual basis, gives to the miners 4 1/2 per cent over their specified wages. A flat 10 per cent increase, therefore, would mean an increase of only 5 1/2 per cent over the present rate of pay, which includes the sliding scale rate."

"Recognition of the union in some form is the real demand and the absolutely essential feature of our case. It cannot be brushed aside. It must be met some time and this time is as good as—perhaps a little better than any other."

MINERS' WAGES

Get 7 Per Cent Increase on Selling Price of Coal.

New York, April 10.—Charles P. Neill, United States commissioner of labor, has issued his monthly bulletin on the average price of anthracite coal at New York harbor.

The bulletin gives the average price of the sizes above pea coal—that is, the so-called "domestic" sizes—for the month of March as $4.88 per ton f. o. b. This price entitled all the mine workers to an increase of 7 per cent on the rates of wages fixed in the award of the anthracite strike commission.

TO BREAK MONOPOLY

Patent Law Changes Likely Soon In Congress.

Washington, April 10.—To break the "patent monopoly" established by the supreme court's decision in the Dick Mincegraph case, Chairman Oldfield, of the house patents committee, announced that he is working on a plan to reclassify the patent laws.

A compulsory license clause and a compulsory working clause will be features of his bill.

New England's Fattest Man Dead.

Boston, April 10.—The fattest man in New England is dead. Abram So. Nelson, twenty-six years old, of 20 Prince street, died at his home after an illness of three weeks. His case was diagnosed as fatty degeneration of the heart.

Aged Recluse Had a Fortune.

Johnstown, Pa., April 10.—Joseph Campagno, an aged recluse, died, and $10,000 in cash, stocks and other securities were found among his effects. He was believed to be in poverty.

Thrust Her Head Into Furnace.

Augusta, Me., April 10.—Miss Mary D. McDavid, assistant in the city library, died from burns self-inflicted. She poured kerosene over her head and shoulders and thrust her head in the furnace.

Hill Top Orchards

Warehouse Company

Aspers, Pa.

FLOUR, FEED and GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Bell Phone

Mt. Holly Exchange

United Phone

Biglerville Exchange

NEW BREAK IN THE LEVEE

Forty-Five Townships Flooded in Arkansas.

CARING FOR THE REFUGEES

Thousands Driven From Their Homes by Swollen Mississippi Need Assistance.

Memphis, Tenn., April 10.—Advises received at Memphis state that the main levee has broken a mile and a half north of Golden Lake, Ark., about fifty miles north of Memphis. The water is spreading over a wide area in that section.

Forty-five townships will be partly covered by water. The town of Marked Tree, Ark., probably will be inundated. Warnings were flashed over the telephone lines to all portions of the section affected, in the hope that the residents would seek high ground before the water reached them.

Hope is entertained that the warnings reached the inhabitants in time to permit them to gain places of safety. The first section to feel the full force of the flood is sparsely settled. Much live stock undoubtedly perished.

The center of the flood situation has somewhat shifted from Memphis to Vicksburg. Chief anxiety is aimed at points between there and the Modoc breaks, south of the Tennessee line. Thousands of workmen labored by moon and lantern light along the threatened levee stretches and the fight continues.

River pilots in charge of steamers that have resumed operations between Memphis and points south say their jobs are anything but enviable. When the river rises to a point that it laps the levee tops a wave from the wake of a steamer might produce sufficient force to smash the embankment.

The pilot of the steamer Kate Adams, to avoid treacherous currents, shifted his course nearer the Arkansas shore. Directly a party of men appeared at the top of the levee and shouted through a megaphone. The pilot called back that he could not understand. In a minute a hail of bullets from repeating rifles cracked about the woodwork in the pilot house. Then the steamer's wheelsman understood. He shifted his steamer back into mid-stream.

The task of caring for the flood victims is proving a serious problem. The greater number of those driven from their homes so far have sought a refuge at Hickman, Ky.; Tiptonville, Tenn.; Forest City and Helena, Ark., and in Memphis. In Memphis the Tri-State fair grounds have been converted into a tented city and the Associated Charities is directing relief measures. At Hickman approximately 2500 persons are being cared for.

Over a thousand people, nearly half of them refugees from the flood, are at Ridgely, Tenn. The one-story houses there are no longer habitable and the two-story houses are crowded. The remainder of the community is out on a hillside without shelter. The stock is without provender.

Two steamboats have reached Tiptonville with provisions, one of them a government boat.

At Bay Landing fifty-three sufferers were picked up without shoes. A Mrs. Baker and two children on a raft made of two logs, their place of refuge for three days, were rescued near Cherokee, Tenn.

ALLEN OUTLAWS ESCAPE

Detectives Say Those at Liberty Left For Parts Unknown.

Mount Airy, S. C., April 10.—The detectives engaged in the search for the Allen outlaws declared that the outlaws are no longer in this section, but have escaped to unknown parts.

Others, however, assert that the outlaws are still hiding in the mountains and have no intention of leaving. It is a well known fact that the people in the mountains, either through friendship or fear, have stood by the outlaws in their efforts to elude capture.

The people in the country around Mount Airy believe that the detectives are simply trying to throw the mountain people off their guard by their declaration that the outlaws have escaped.

Signs Children's Bureau Bill.

Washington, April 10.—President Taft signed the bill creating the children's bureau of the department of commerce and labor. The gold pen he used was presented to A. J. McKelway, secretary of the anti-child labor bureau, which fought for the passage of the bill.

Rat Bit Hole In His Cheek.

Washington, Pa., April 10.—Awakened by a severe pain, Charles Reed of Paris, near here, found that a rat which he struck with his hand, had chewed a hole in his cheek and badly lacerated his ear. Reed's condition is serious.

Notice To HORSE BREEDERS

RONULUS: 47248

Beautiful Black Imported Percheron Draft Stallion will make the season of 1912 as follows: Monday at Samuel Trimmer's, Seven Stars; Tuesday and Saturday, J. Jere Plank's stable rear of City Hotel, Gettysburg; Wednesday at Peter Berger's, Bonneauville; Thursday at Oliver M. Sentz's, on the Smith Barr farm near Hoffman Orphanage Friday at S. S. Shriver's, Barlow.

L. D. PLANK, Gettysburg, Pa.
Successor to The Adams County Percheron Horse Company.

HATS CAPS

A FEW BARGAINS LEFT IN SHOES

C. B. KITZMILLER

SHOES RUBBERS

The Belgian Stallion

VAINQUEUR Jr.,

DESCRIPTION

VAINQUEUR, JR., Is a beautiful any Bay, with black points 6 years old, weighs over 1800 pounds. He is a horse of fine style and action, with a kind disposition, will work anywhere. Fearless of steam or automobiles. All these qualities combined make him the horse to breed from to get colts that will bring the highest price with very little handling.

PEDIGREE

Vainqueur, Jr., was sired by 1 - any Bay, with black points 6 years old, weighs over 1800 pounds. He is a horse of fine style and action, with a kind disposition, will work anywhere. Fearless of steam or automobiles. All these qualities combined make him the horse to breed from to get colts that will bring the highest price with very little handling.

TERMS

$10 single service, to be paid at time of service. $12 for the season, to be paid during the season. $15 to insure, payable when mare is known to be in foal.

Any one breeding two mares $25, if the two mares get with foal; if only one gets with foal $15. Breeders parting with mares before they are known to be with foal will be held responsible for insurance.

Will make the season beginning April 1st and ending July 1st, 1912 at the following places:

From 9 a. m. Monday until 3 p. m. Tuesday at Harry Brough, Aspers. Wednesday at owner's stable near Gettysburg. From 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Thursday at F. M. Bream, Biglerville. From 10 a. m. Friday to 3 p. m. Saturday at Frank Spangler's, New Oxford.

For further information apply to JOSEPH B. TWINING, Owner, Route 12, Gettysburg, Pa.

United Phone.

License No. 538, Class, Belgian, unregistered, but sound.

FAWN and WHITE INDIAN RUNNER DUCKS

Are now acknowledged to be the greatest egg producers in existence. Eggs from grand pure bred stock $1.00 per 10.

R. C. R. I. REDS

Of the most popular blood lines in the country. Eggs $.00 per 15.

GIANT BRONZE TURKEY

Eggs $3.00 per 10.

Write or Phone,

HARRY VANDYKE, R. D. 6, Gettysburg, Pa.

IMPORTED BELGIAN STALLION

Jean Du Strau

Belgian No. 42790 American No. 3605

JEAN DU STRAU, Belgian No. 42790, American No. 3605, Sire Bruno de Flewurs No. 24694; Dam, Fannie Du Strau No. 50867; Sire Apollon No. 12294; Dam, Clara Bruno No. 19877; Sire Brilliant No. 4918; Dam, Baie I No. 1877.

DESCRIPTION

Jean Du Strau is a beautiful Mahogany Bay, with black points, 6 years old, weighs over 2000 pounds. Has fine style and action, kind disposition, is fearless of automobiles and steam. All these qualities combined make him the horse to breed from to get colts that will bring the highest price with very little handling.

TERMS

$10 single service, to be paid at time of service. $12 for the season, to be paid during the season. $15 to insure, payable when mare is known to be in foal. All accidents and escapes at owners risk. Breeders parting with mares, before they are known to be in foal will be held responsible for insurance.

Will make the season beginning April 1st and ending July 1st, 1912 at the following places:

From 10 a. m. Monday until 12 m., Tuesday at Sauers Mill near McKnightstown. From 3 p. m., Tuesday until 3 p. m. Wednesday, Hotel at Fairfield. Thursday and Friday at owner's stable near Gettysburg. From 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. Saturday at Chas. McDannal's Arendtsville.

JOSEPH B. TWINING, Route 12, Gettysburg, Pa.

United Phone.

License No. 416, Class, Belgian.

Rooms for Rent

In the bustling town of Biglerville, suitable for millinery store, harness store, offices, restaurant, etc. Electrical light, steam heat and all conveniences.

SIX ROOM PROPERTY FOR SALE

Newly Papered and Painted. Price $1250
Thomas Brothers, Biglerville, Pennsylvania.

The Prodigal Judge

Illustration by D. Merrill

Copyright, 1911, The Bobb-Merrill Company

CHAPTER V.

The Encounter.

Betty Malroy had ridden into the square's yard during the progress of the trial and when Yancy and Hannibal came from the house she beckoned the Scratch Hiller to her.

"You are not going to lose your nephew, are you, Mr. Yancy?" she asked eagerly, when Yancy stood at her side.

"No, ma'am." But his sense of elation was plainly tempered.

"I am very glad. I rode out to the Hill to say good-by to Hannibal and to you, but they said you were here and that the trial was today."

Captain Murrell, with Crenshaw and the squire, came from the house, and Murrell's swarthy face lit up at sight of the girl. Yancy would have yielded his place, but Betty detained him.

"Are you going away, ma'am?" he asked with concern.

"Yes—to my home in west Tennessee," and a cloud crossed her smooth brow.

"But ain't you ever coming back, Miss Betty?" asked Hannibal rather fearfully.

"Oh, I hope so, dear." She turned to Yancy. "I wonder you could leave the Hill, Mr. Yancy. You don't so easily go where Mr. Bladen would never find you. Haven't you thought of this?"

"That's a p'int," agreed Yancy slowly. "Might I ask you what parts you'd specially recommend?" lifting his grave eyes to hers.

"It would really be the sensible thing to do," said Betty. "I am sure you would like west Tennessee—they say you are a great hunter." Yancy smiled almost guiltily.

"Mr. Yancy, if you should cross the mountains, remember I live near Memphis. Belle Plain is the name of the plantation—it's not hard to find; just don't forget—Belle Plain."

"I won't forget, and mebbe you will see us there one of these days. Sho, I've seen mighty little of the world—about as far as a dog can trot in a couple of hours!"

Betty glanced toward the squire and Mr. Crenshaw. They were standing near the bars that gave entrance to the lane. Murrell had left them and was walking briskly down the road toward Crenshaw's store, where his horse was tied. She bent down and gave Yancy her slim white hand.

"Good-by, Mr. Yancy—lift Hannibal so that I can kiss him!" Yancy swung the child aloft. "I think you are such a nice little boy, Hannibal—you and frowned sadly. Tom was her guardian, and her memories of him were not satisfactory. A burly, unshaven man with a queer streak of meanness through his character.

"You've spent much of your time up north?" suggested Murrell.

"Four years. I've been at school, you know. That's where I met Judith Ferris."

"I hope you'll like west Tennessee. It's still a bit raw compared with what you've been accustomed to in the north. You haven't been back in all those four years?"

"Nor seen Tom—nor any one from out yonder?" For some reason a little tinge of color had crept into Betty's cheeks.

"Will you let me renew our acquaintance at Belle Plain? I shall be in west Tennessee before the summer is over; probably I shall leave here within a week," he said, bending toward her. His glance dwelt on her face and on the pliant lines of her figure, and his senses swam.

"I imagine you will be welcome at Belle Plain. You are Tom's friend," Murrell bit his lip, and then laughed as his mind conjured up a picture of the cherished Tom. Suddenly he reached out and rested his hand on hers.

"Betty—if I might think—" he began, but his tongue stumbled. His love-making was usually of a savage sort, but some quality in the girl held him in check. Betty drew away from him, an angry color on her cheeks and an angry light in her eyes. "Forgive me, Betty," murmured Murrell, but his heart beat against his ribs, and passion sent his surges through him. "Don't you know what I'm trying to tell you?" he whispered. Betty gathered up her reins. "Not yet—" he cried, and again he rested a heavy hand on hers.

"Let me go—let me go!" cried Betty indignantly.

"No—not yet!" He urged his horse still nearer and gathered her close. "You've got to hear me. I loved you since the first moment I rested my eyes on you—and, by God, you shall love me in return!" He felt her struggle to free herself from his grasp with a sense of savage triumph.

Bruce Carrington, on his way back to Fayetteville from the Forks, came about a turn in the road. Betty saw a tall, handsome fellow in the first flush of manhood; Carrington, an angry girl struggling in a man's grasp.

At sight of the new-comer, Murrell, with an oath, released Betty, who, striking her horse with the whip, galloped down the road toward the barony. As she fled past Carrington she bent low in her saddle.

"Don't let him follow me!" she gasped, and Carrington, striding forward, caught Murrell's horse by the bit.

"Let go!" roared Murrell, and a murderous light shot from his eyes.

"I don't know but I should pull you out of that saddle and twist your neck!" said Carrington hotly. Murrell's face underwent a swift change.

"You're a bold fellow to force your way into a lover's quarrel," he said quietly. Carrington's arm dropped at his side. Perhaps, after all, it was that.

CHAPTER VI.

Betty Sets Out for Tennessee.

Bruce's first memories had to do with long nights when he perched beside his father on the cabin roof of their keel-boat and watched the stars or the blurred line of the shore where it lay against the sky, or the lights on other barges and rafts drifting as they were drifting, with their wheat and corn and whisky, to that common market at the river's mouth.

Bruce Carrington had seen the day of barge and raft reach its zenith, had heard the first steam packet's shrieking whistle, which sounded the death-knell of the ancient order, though the shifting of the trade was a slow matter and the glory of the old did not pass over to the new at once, but lingered still in mighty fleets of rafts and keel-boats and in the heroic carousals of some ten thousand of the half-horse, half-alligator breed that nightly gathered in New Orleans.

After the reading of the warrant that morning, Charley Balaam had shown Carrington the road to the Forks, assuring him when they separated that with a little care and decent use of his eyes it would be possible to fetch up there and not pass plumb through the settlement without knowing where he was.

He was on his way to Fayetteville, where he intended to spend the night, and perhaps a day or two in looking around, when the meeting with Betty and Murrell occurred. The girl's face remained with him. It was a face he would like to see again.

He was still thinking of the girl when he ate his supper that night at Clegg's Tavern. Later, in the bar, he engaged his host in idle gossip. He had met a gentleman and a lady on the road that day; he wondered, as he toyed with his glass, if it could have been the Ferrises? Mounted? Yes, mounted. Then it was Ferris and his wife—or it might have been Captain Murrell and Miss Malroy. Miss Malroy did not live in that part of the country; she was a friend of Mrs. Ferris, belonged in Kentucky or Tennessee, or somewhere out yonder—at any rate she was bringing her visit to an end, for Ferris had instructed him to reserve a place for her in the north-bound stage on the morrow.

Carrington suddenly remembered that he had thought of starting north in the morning himself.

The stage left at six, and as Carrington climbed to his seat the next morning Mr. Clegg was advising the driver to look sharp when he came to the barony road, as he was to pick up a party there. It was Carrington who looked sharp, and almost at the spot where he had seen Miss Malroy the day before he saw her again, with Ferris and Judith and a pile of luggage bestowed by the way-side. Betty did not observe him as the coach stopped, for she was intent on her farewells with her friends. There were hasty words of advice from Ferris, prolonged good-bys to Judith, tears—kisses—while a and frowned sadly. Tom was her guardian, and her memories of him were not satisfactory. A burly, unshaven man with a queer streak of meanness through his character.

"You've spent much of your time up north?" suggested Murrell.

"Four years. I've been at school, you know. That's where I met Judith Ferris."

"I hope you'll like west Tennessee. It's still a bit raw compared with what you've been accustomed to in the north. You haven't been back in all those four years?"

"Nor seen Tom—nor any one from out yonder?" For some reason a little tinge of color had crept into Betty's cheeks.

"Will you let me renew our acquaintance at Belle Plain? I shall be in west Tennessee before the summer is over; probably I shall leave here within a week," he said, bending toward her. His glance dwelt on her face and on the pliant lines of her figure, and his senses swam.

"I imagine you will be welcome at Belle Plain. You are Tom's friend," Murrell bit his lip, and then laughed as his mind conjured up a picture of the cherished Tom. Suddenly he reached out and rested his hand on hers.

"Betty—if I might think—" he began, but his tongue stumbled. His love-making was usually of a savage sort, but some quality in the girl held him in check. Betty drew away from him, an angry color on her cheeks and an angry light in her eyes. "Forgive me, Betty," murmured Murrell, but his heart beat against his ribs, and passion sent his surges through him. "Don't you know what I'm trying to tell you?" he whispered. Betty gathered up her reins. "Not yet—" he cried, and again he rested a heavy hand on hers.

"Let me go—let me go!" cried Betty indignantly.

"No—not yet!" He urged his horse still nearer and gathered her close. "You've got to hear me. I loved you since the first moment I rested my eyes on you—and, by God, you shall love me in return!" He felt her struggle to free herself from his grasp with a sense of savage triumph.

Bruce Carrington, on his way back to Fayetteville from the Forks, came about a turn in the road. Betty saw a tall, handsome fellow in the first flush of manhood; Carrington, an angry girl struggling in a man's grasp.

At sight of the new-comer, Murrell, with an oath, released Betty, who, striking her horse with the whip, galloped down the road toward the barony. As she fled past Carrington she bent low in her saddle.

"Don't let him follow me!" she gasped, and Carrington, striding forward, caught Murrell's horse by the bit.

"Let go!" roared Murrell, and a murderous light shot from his eyes.

"I don't know but I should pull you out of that saddle and twist your neck!" said Carrington hotly. Murrell's face underwent a swift change.

"You're a bold fellow to force your way into a lover's quarrel," he said quietly. Carrington's arm dropped at his side. Perhaps, after all, it was that.

CHAPTER VI.

Betty Sets Out for Tennessee.

Bruce's first memories had to do with long nights when he perched beside his father on the cabin roof of their keel-boat and watched the stars or the blurred line of the shore where it lay against the sky, or the lights on other barges and rafts drifting as they were drifting, with their wheat and corn and whisky, to that common market at the river's mouth.

Bruce Carrington had seen the day of barge and raft reach its zenith, had heard the first steam packet's shrieking whistle, which sounded the death-knell of the ancient order, though the shifting of the trade was a slow matter and the glory of the old did not pass over to the new at once, but lingered still in mighty fleets of rafts and keel-boats and in the heroic carousals of some ten thousand of the half-horse, half-alligator breed that nightly gathered in New Orleans.

After the reading of the warrant that morning, Charley Balaam had shown Carrington the road to the Forks, assuring him when they separated that with a little care and decent use of his eyes it would be possible to fetch up there and not pass plumb through the settlement without knowing where he was.

He was on his way to Fayetteville, where he intended to spend the night, and perhaps a day or two in looking around, when the meeting with Betty and Murrell occurred. The girl's face remained with him. It was a face he would like to see again.

He was still thinking of the girl when he ate his supper that night at Clegg's Tavern. Later, in the bar, he engaged his host in idle gossip. He had met a gentleman and a lady on the road that day; he wondered, as he toyed with his glass, if it could have been the Ferrises? Mounted? Yes, mounted. Then it was Ferris and his wife—or it might have been Captain Murrell and Miss Malroy. Miss Malroy did not live in that part of the country; she was a friend of Mrs. Ferris, belonged in Kentucky or Tennessee, or somewhere out yonder—at any rate she was bringing her visit to an end, for Ferris had instructed him to reserve a place for her in the north-bound stage on the morrow.

Carrington suddenly remembered that he had thought of starting north in the morning himself.

The stage left at six, and as Carrington climbed to his seat the next morning Mr. Clegg was advising the driver to look sharp when he came to the barony road, as he was to pick up a party there. It was Carrington who looked sharp, and almost at the spot where he had seen Miss Malroy the day before he saw her again, with Ferris and Judith and a pile of luggage bestowed by the way-side. Betty did not observe him as the coach stopped, for she was intent on her farewells with her friends. There were hasty words of advice from Ferris, prolonged good-bys to Judith, tears—kisses—while a and frowned sadly. Tom was her guardian, and her memories of him were not satisfactory. A burly, unshaven man with a queer streak of meanness through his character.

"You've spent much of your time up north?" suggested Murrell.

"Four years. I've been at school, you know. That's where I met Judith Ferris."

"I hope you'll like west Tennessee. It's still a bit raw compared with what you've been accustomed to in the north. You haven't been back in all those four years?"

"Nor seen Tom—nor any one from out yonder?" For some reason a little tinge of color had crept into Betty's cheeks.

"Will you let me renew our acquaintance at Belle Plain? I shall be in west Tennessee before the summer is over; probably I shall leave here within a week," he said, bending toward her. His glance dwelt on her face and on the pliant lines of her figure, and his senses swam.

"I imagine you will be welcome at Belle Plain. You are Tom's friend," Murrell bit his lip, and then laughed as his mind conjured up a picture of the cherished Tom. Suddenly he reached out and rested his hand on hers.

"Betty—if I might think—" he began, but his tongue stumbled. His love-making was usually of a savage sort, but some quality in the girl held him in check. Betty drew away from him, an angry color on her cheeks and an angry light in her eyes. "Forgive me, Betty," murmured Murrell, but his heart beat against his ribs, and passion sent his surges through him. "Don't you know what I'm trying to tell you?" he whispered. Betty gathered up her reins. "Not yet—" he cried, and again he rested a heavy hand on hers.

"Let me go—let me go!" cried Betty indignantly.

"No—not yet!" He urged his horse still nearer and gathered her close. "You've got to hear me. I loved you since the first moment I rested my eyes on you—and, by God, you shall love me in return!" He felt her struggle to free herself from his grasp with a sense of savage triumph.

Bruce Carrington, on his way back to Fayetteville from the Forks, came about a turn in the road. Betty saw a tall, handsome fellow in the first flush of manhood; Carrington, an angry girl struggling in a man's grasp.

At sight of the new-comer, Murrell, with an oath, released Betty, who, striking her horse with the whip, galloped down the road toward the barony. As she fled past Carrington she bent low in her saddle.

"Don't let him follow me!" she gasped, and Carrington, striding forward, caught Murrell's horse by the bit.

"Let go!" roared Murrell, and a murderous light shot from his eyes.

"I don't know but I should pull you out of that saddle and twist your neck!" said Carrington hotly. Murrell's face underwent a swift change.

"You're a bold fellow to force your way into a lover's quarrel," he said quietly. Carrington's arm dropped at his side. Perhaps, after all, it was that.

and frowned sadly. Tom was her guardian, and her memories of him were not satisfactory. A burly, unshaven man with a queer streak of meanness through his character.

"You've spent much of your time up north?" suggested Murrell.

"Four years. I've been at school, you know. That's where I met Judith Ferris."

"I hope you'll like west Tennessee. It's still a bit raw compared with what you've been accustomed to in the north. You haven't been back in all those four years?"

"Nor seen Tom—nor any one from out yonder?" For some reason a little tinge of color had crept into Betty's cheeks.

"Will you let me renew our acquaintance at Belle Plain? I shall be in west Tennessee before the summer is over; probably I shall leave here within a week," he said, bending toward her. His glance dwelt on her face and on the pliant lines of her figure, and his senses swam.

"I imagine you will be welcome at Belle Plain. You are Tom's friend," Murrell bit his lip, and then laughed as his mind conjured up a picture of the cherished Tom. Suddenly he reached out and rested his hand on hers.

"Betty—if I might think—" he began, but his tongue stumbled. His love-making was usually of a savage sort, but some quality in the girl held him in check. Betty drew away from him, an angry color on her cheeks and an angry light in her eyes. "Forgive me, Betty," murmured Murrell, but his heart beat against his ribs, and passion sent his surges through him. "Don't you know what I'm trying to tell you?" he whispered. Betty gathered up her reins. "Not yet—" he cried, and again he rested a heavy hand on hers.

"Let me go—let me go!" cried Betty indignantly.

"No—not yet!" He urged his horse still nearer and gathered her close. "You've got to hear me. I loved you since the first moment I rested my eyes on you—and, by God, you shall love me in return!" He felt her struggle to free herself from his grasp with a sense of savage triumph.

Bruce Carrington, on his way back to Fayetteville from the Forks, came about a turn in the road. Betty saw a tall, handsome fellow in the first flush of manhood; Carrington, an angry girl struggling in a man's grasp.

At sight of the new-comer, Murrell, with an oath, released Betty, who, striking her horse with the whip, galloped down the road toward the barony. As she fled past Carrington she bent low in her saddle.

"Don't let him follow me!" she gasped, and Carrington, striding forward, caught Murrell's horse by the bit.

"Let go!" roared Murrell, and a murderous light shot from his eyes.

"I don't know but I should pull you out of that saddle and twist your neck!" said Carrington hotly. Murrell's face underwent a swift change.

"You're a bold fellow to force your way into a lover's quarrel," he said quietly. Carrington's arm dropped at his side. Perhaps, after all, it was that.

CHAPTER VI.

Betty Sets Out for Tennessee.

Bruce's first memories had to do with long nights when he perched beside his father on the cabin roof of their keel-boat and watched the stars or the blurred line of the shore where it lay against the sky, or the lights on other barges and rafts drifting as they were drifting, with their wheat and corn and whisky, to that common market at the river's mouth.

Bruce Carrington had seen the day of barge and raft reach its zenith, had heard the first steam packet's shrieking whistle, which sounded the death-knell of the ancient order, though the shifting of the trade was a slow matter and the glory of the old did not pass over to the new at once, but lingered still in mighty fleets of rafts and keel-boats and in the heroic carousals of some ten thousand of the half-horse, half-alligator breed that nightly gathered in New Orleans.

After the reading of the warrant that morning, Charley Balaam had shown Carrington the road to the Forks, assuring him when they separated that with a little care and decent use of his eyes it would be possible to fetch up there and not pass plumb through the settlement without knowing where he was.

He was on his way to Fayetteville, where he intended to spend the night, and perhaps a day or two in looking around, when the meeting with Betty and Murrell occurred. The girl's face remained with him. It was a face he would like to see again.

He was still thinking of the girl when he ate his supper that night at Clegg's Tavern. Later, in the bar, he engaged his host in idle gossip. He had met a gentleman and a lady on the road that day; he wondered, as he toyed with his glass, if it could have been the Ferrises? Mounted? Yes, mounted. Then it was Ferris and his wife—or it might have been Captain Murrell and Miss Malroy. Miss Malroy did not live in that part of the country; she was a friend of Mrs. Ferris, belonged in Kentucky or Tennessee, or somewhere out yonder—at any rate she was bringing her visit to an end, for Ferris had instructed him to reserve a place for her in the north-bound stage on the morrow.

Carrington suddenly remembered that he had thought of starting north in the morning himself.

The stage left at six, and as Carrington climbed to his seat the next morning Mr. Clegg was advising the driver to look sharp when he came to the barony road, as he was to pick up a party there. It was Carrington who looked sharp, and almost at the spot where he had seen Miss Malroy the day before he saw her again, with Ferris and Judith and a pile of luggage bestowed by the way-side. Betty did not observe him as the coach stopped, for she was intent on her farewells with her friends. There were hasty words of advice from Ferris, prolonged good-bys to Judith, tears—kisses—while a and frowned sadly. Tom was her guardian, and her memories of him were not satisfactory. A burly, unshaven man with a queer streak of meanness through his character.

"You've spent much of your time up north?" suggested Murrell.

"Four years. I've been at school, you know. That's where I met Judith Ferris."

"I hope you'll like west Tennessee. It's still a bit raw compared with what you've been accustomed to in the north. You haven't been back in all those four years?"

"Nor seen Tom—nor any one from out yonder?" For some reason a little tinge of color had crept into Betty's cheeks.

"Will you let me renew our acquaintance at Belle Plain? I shall be in west Tennessee before the summer is over; probably I shall leave here within a week," he said, bending toward her. His glance dwelt on her face and on the pliant lines of her figure, and his senses swam.

"I imagine you will be welcome at Belle Plain. You are Tom's friend," Murrell bit his lip, and then laughed as his mind conjured up a picture of the cherished Tom. Suddenly he reached out and rested his hand on hers.

"Betty—if I might think—" he began, but his tongue stumbled. His love-making was usually of a savage sort, but some quality in the girl held him in check. Betty drew away from him, an angry color on her cheeks and an angry light in her eyes. "Forgive me, Betty," murmured Murrell, but his heart beat against his ribs, and passion sent his surges through him. "Don't you know what I'm trying to tell you?" he whispered. Betty gathered up her reins. "Not yet—" he cried, and again he rested a heavy hand on hers.

"Let me go—let me go!" cried Betty indignantly.

"No—not yet!" He urged his horse still nearer and gathered her close. "You've got to hear me. I loved you since the first moment I rested my eyes on you—and, by God, you shall love me in return!" He felt her struggle to free herself from his grasp with a sense of savage triumph.

Bruce Carrington, on his way back to Fayetteville from the Forks, came about a turn in the road. Betty saw a tall, handsome fellow in the first flush of manhood; Carrington, an angry girl struggling in a man's grasp.

At sight of the new-comer, Murrell, with an oath, released Betty, who, striking her horse with the whip, galloped down the road toward the barony. As she fled past Carrington she bent low in her saddle.

"Don't let him follow me!" she gasped, and Carrington, striding forward, caught Murrell's horse by the bit.

"Let go!" roared Murrell, and a murderous light shot from his eyes.

"I don't know but I should pull you out of that saddle and twist your neck!" said Carrington hotly. Murrell's face underwent a swift change.

"You're a bold fellow to force your way into a lover's quarrel," he said quietly. Carrington's arm dropped at his side. Perhaps, after all, it was that.

HOME TOWN HELPS

FACTORY WORKERS' PARKS

Pennsylvania Manufacturer Lays Out Permanent Grounds About His Buildings.

In a large town in Pennsylvania the owner of a factory started to lay out ornamental grounds about his buildings and everybody marveled. Flower beds and green lawns made their appearance, vines clambered over the buildings and shade trees reared their heads in places needing shade. And still the people marveled. Soon afterwards a new lot was bought, an office building erected, the upper story was fitted up for a recreation room, tables, a hundred chairs, magazines, newspapers, etc., were furnished, and the announcement made that the room would be kept open Sunday afternoons. At this stage the curiosity of the people was so aroused that they asked for an explanation.

The factory owner stated that his business was prospering, enlargement contemplated and so he had recently made a tour of inspection to factory districts noted for business success, no strikes or labor disturbances and the improvements to be seen resulted from that trip to the best industrial centers. To be brief, satisfied employees are a business man's best asset, for without a certain amount of loyalty no concern can endure. This view has evidently come to be the general one, for factory owners for the comfort of employees is now looked to both indoors and out. Some firms, and even some cities, are noted for the landscape beauty on their factory grounds. Some have gone so far as to plant grapevines as ornaments so employees may enjoy fresh grapes in season. Everything for beauty and comfort is provided in summer and fireplaces, games, etc., take care of idle moments in winter.

ADD BEAUTY TO THE STREET

Park-like Effect Is Easily Given by Using a Little Care in Planting.

With informal planting in a wide parkway a park-like effect could be given on each side of the street that would go far toward counteracting the harsh, monotonous lines of formality in curb, sidewalk and property line; also the flatness and insufficiency of outlook. Street trees could be planted at various distances between curbs, singly, in twos and in threes, interspersed with clumps of shrubbery. This would give a narrow parklike effect on each side and could be rendered still more beautiful and picturesque. The walks could gently curve from near one side to the other; the curves not so abrupt or pronounced as to deter the hurrying pedestrian from covering the shortest distance between two given points, yet enough to give beauty and variety to the whole that would prove very satisfying to all observers. All herein outlined has been carried out in many places, not all abroad, but in our own country—in Chicago, for example—therefore there is nothing impracticable about it. The chief drawback is that the returns are not quick enough for our wild-cat real estate boomers. Few can be found sufficiently unselfish or generous enough to plant for future generations and nothing worthy of emulation in this line may be built on a less stable foundation.

Philadelphia Park Development.

The trend is altogether for a more widely diffused city with many open spaces and green areas freely distributed. Public-spirited citizens have contributed to this by their gifts. The City Parks association is a development of this movement and is a most active agent. Its twenty-third annual report, just issued, presents us with the conception of a greater park system, which shall checkerboard with green parked driveways many of the choice spots and wooded ravines with in twenty miles or more of Philadelphia. Highways which were once regarded merely as a means to get somewhere are now viewed as important in themselves, a source of pleasure and comfort to those who use and enjoy them.—Philadelphia Press.

The Poet's Mission.

"I can't see," the poet's wife complained, "why you don't give up writing poetry and go in for something that might be more profitable."

"My dear, you don't understand the poet's mission."

"I suppose I don't. I wish you'd tell me what it is."

"Can't you see how great a boon I am conferring upon posterity? A hundred years from now orators will be quoting my lines without mentioning me, and it will be supposed that they themselves are the authors of them, just as orators of the present day embellish their speeches with quotations from poets who have long been dead, without taking the trouble to mention the fact that they were borrowing."

"But how will that help you?"

"It won't help me at all. But do you want oratory to become a lost art?"

Costly Proposal.

Mollie—Did you ever propose to a girl in a taxicab.

Chollie—I did.

"What was the answer?"

"Sixteen dollars and forty cents."

Overdoing It.

Watt Snatter—Why do you keep on applauding that singer? She refuses to give any encore.

O. Hezall Wright—That's why I'm applauding her!

STATES THE CROPS

Statistics of Pennsylvania crops and farms for 1911 were issued by A. L. Martin, deputy secretary of agriculture, the compilation being made from reports supplied by agents of the department in every county. The figures show the state to stand first in the United States as a grower of rye, the production being 6,460,000 bushels; second as a grower of potatoes with 28,160,000 bushels; buckwheat 5,655,000 bushels and hay with 4,433,000 tons. The wheat production is given at 27,637,000 bushels, making the state ninth in the Union as a wheat grower, and the corn at 65,026,000 bushels making the standing of the state seventeenth for corn.

MEDICAL ADVERTISING

STATES THE TRUTH

Richmond Hill, L. I.—Albert Porter, who has lived here for some time, believes that when a man in bad health finds something that is just what he needs, it is his duty to let the facts be known.

He says: "All winter I had a bad cold and a cough which I could not get rid of. I was badly run down by sides. A short time ago I started using Vinol and my cough is gone